PASSIVE RESISTANCE

Act 1: Outside Hungerford Town Hall September 24th 1903

Curtains closed, cart at rear of stage, 2 deed boxes

Projection = Passive Resistance 1903

Audience ready then open curtains 1 metre

Eva walks to face the audience: At the turn of the 19th century industrial output and educational standards in Britain were falling behind Europe and the United States.

The Conservative and Unionist coalition Government, which had been in power since 1886, sent the Director of the Office of Special Inquiries and Reports abroad to find out what other countries were doing. While he was travelling Robert L. Morant deputised for him.

The1902 Education Act was designed to improve standards in primary and secondary education by amongst other things, levying a local tax to be distributed to all local schools.

Voluntary schools, usually Anglican or Roman Catholic, were in need of better funding. Non- conformists who ran Board schools, already funded by local taxes, did not want to support these Church schools in any way.

In each parish the overseer, who calculated how much local tax each citizen should pay, sent out bills that combined the Poor Rate (as usual) and the Education rate as laid down by the new Act. This new local tax was to be paid for the first time in 1903

On September 24th 1903 the first person to refuse to pay is to have his personal goods auctioned to pay the overseer what is due.

H D Grantham	Enters from rear left looking perplexed. Sees Supt Robotham and advances to address him Superintendent Robotham! How pleased I am to see you. One of my parishioners told me that I should see an auction here. This morning. Is that the case?
Supt Oliver Robotham	Enters from rear right Indeed Rector. But you are a little early, it is scheduled for a quarter to 12.	Looks up at Town hall clock?
HDG	Do you think there will be trouble, Superintendent?
SOR	I hope not, sir, that is why I am here, to keep the peace.
HDG	I am not sure I understand what is going on. What is being auctioned here?
SOR	I am not too sure but I do know the items belong to Mr Wilfred John Rosier and he has been in court twice this month.
HDG	So he's having to sell his belongings to pay a fine? But what has he done to incur this penalty?
SOR	Ah, that's easy to explain – he refused to pay his rates! Well at least he refused to pay part of his rates. In truth the overseer had proved an incorrect amount as Mr Rosier had moved into Park Street 2 days after the date the amount was calculated from. WSK/WJH/ WJR	Harris arrives from stage right. Shakes hands with Rosier and Goodwin. Rosier hands Harris a purse of money, surreptitiously I think, but in view of the audience	Clock changes to 11.45am
WSK	You all know that Mr Rosier's belongings are being sold so that the Overseers receive the rates in full. You see the distrained articles before you. SOR	I fear this is just the beginning. I hear that scores of dissenters will appear in court soon, in Newbury, Reading, indeed all over England and especially Wales. And they will all refuse to pay the education rate. And then the court will make a distraint order

All	Amen, amen
HBG	I have here a letter from the Rev W H
	Summers, Congregational Pastor here in Hungerford. I shall read his words to you.
	Dear Mr Goodwin	Reading a
	I am sorry that owing to the engagement at	letter
	Oxford of which I spoke to you the other
	day, I am prevented from being with you tomorrow and expressing my intense and growing opposition to the policy of the Education Act. The more I see of its practical working and the unfairness shown in many quarters, and by the Berkshire County Council especially, the more glad I am that Nonconformists did not yield to the plausible appeals to 'give the Act a fair trial'.

Out of the 31 members of the Berkshire Educational Authority only one is a nonconformist and as this gentleman happens to be laid aside by a severe accident, we are left without a single representative at this most critical juncture.
I think that our county scheme is one of the most one-sided in England. I am disgusted by the cuckoo-cry that this is 'only a political agitation'. The same charge was brought against the early Christians, and it is the stalest plea of the persecutor in every age.
If we have little to complain of in Hungerford at the present time it must be borne in mind that the rate is not for this parish alone, but for country parishes in which there is but one school and therefore no choice for parents.
(maybe one or two look at HBG?)	Continues Besides at any time a change of clergy may bring into Hungerford itself a less broad and liberal spirit than at present prevails.
It is 15 years since I ever spoke at a political meeting, and 7 or 8 years since I attended one. So I don't think anyone can call me a political Dissenter. But I am thankful to see that many Nonconformists who have been putting th and oppose do away w optations so that all rights'. There we (Applause Now Rev ⁻¹ Congregat	(all Protestants of course) are beir religion before their politics sing the Act. Mr Rosier and y else (points to Rosier) will be understand there is with him the d active support of a great mass of Nonconformists. Dr Clifford poster – cheers) has written to me glad to hear there are so many esisters in Newbury, and he has no t the principle will grow in the nty, as it is growing all over the We have 40,000 Passive Resisters is a remarkable fact, the more so	Takes HBG's place of the spontaneity of the movement. Our fellow townsman, Mr Rosier, has not taken up this attitude because anyone has persuaded him, but because of the steady and deliberate growth of his own conviction of what is right and what is required of him.

In Newbury some of us met in January last to form a Citizen's League, then our members numbered only 3 or 4, now over 40 persons have refused to pay the Education Rate. I have not persuaded anyone to join this movement but have just pointed out my own position in this matter.
A friend has made the doleful prediction of the way in which the Conservative Press will ridicule us. Only the other day he noticed in the "Daily Mail" an account written by a correspondent who had been on a walking tour through East Anglia. He said he had interviewed some 800 people during the course of his tour, and the only question they were keenly interested in and thoroughly understood was the question of Passive Resistance, and he pointed out that the Government had no idea of the really serious danger this was from their point of view.
(Muttering emphasising this point)
In this cause of Passive Resistance we stand first of all upon our own conscientious convictions about religious teaching. We decline to pay for teaching the catechism which is repugnant to our conscience. If there is to be religious teaching at the public cost – and some of us are very doubtful about that – let it be upon those points upon which we are all supposed to agree, and not upon dogmas and doctrines upon which we differ, such as Baptismal Regeneration.

Amen, amen.

We know that learning the Catechism by rote can never be enough to be accepted into the Kingdom of Heaven. Faith is the indispensable requisite to salvation!

(Hear, hear)

Whilst Nonconformists are taking a stand for our own convictions we are also upholding the rights of the people. We are fighting for the clear right of the teacher to be chosen for his qualifications as a teacher, and not because he belongs to a particular church or because of his power to play a particular church organ.

Laughter

We are not standing only for our own religious convictions we are also standing for the rights of teachers, for the efficiency of public education, and for the rights of the people against a spurious majority in Parliament. There has never in my time been so grave an abuse of Parliament as the passing last year of the Education Act. (Pause)

I am exceedingly glad that things have gone off amicably this morning, and I think the authorities will find things will pass off amicably, so long as they are reasonable and polite as they were this morning. We are not going to pay this rate so long as this Act remains as at present. We will go on until some Government or other (pause) recognises the injustices of this Act and removes them from the Statute Book.

	(Applause)
EHT	All men take hats off The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Ghost, be with us all evermore. Amen	Benediction PRs exit stage right and to back
	SOR and HDG resume centre stage
SOR	Are you wiser now?
HDG	I think I am more confused than ever! This Citizen's League, which I had never heard of before, is refusing to pay the education rate, not for the sake of their own children and grandchildren, or indeed children of their parishioners. In Hungerford and of course Newbury there is a choice of school, Board or Voluntary, but it is true that in Hungerford Newtown, where I am a Governor, all children have to attend the St Mary's Church of England School – where the catechism is taught. But children can always be withdrawn from religious teaching and worship – difficult at times, though I believe the new Act stipulates such teaching to be at the end of the day – or first thing in the morning.

	Am I right in observing that Mr Rosier's friend, Harris the baker if I am not mistaken, was using Mr Rosier's own purse to pay for the items he won at auction?
SOR	I couldn't possibly comment sir!	Exit rear

John	Tis true. Midwinter and Nash mentioned this
Rankin	state of affairs Sunday last. They are worried it will be bedlam - as Best's county petty session was two weeks ago. Then there were only about 10 ratepayers on that occasion but the police had to step in and they ejected poor William Froome.

JND	Good heavens
JR	Did you read the account of the lecture on Passive Resistance in yesterday's paper? Thompson read out his letter to the Chief Constable about the way Froome had been treated and he, Major Poulton replied – that was read out too.
Joseph Elliott	It seems I've missed some excitement here. I haven't had time to read the Newbury yet. These upstanding citizens are up before us because they refuse to pay the rate, that's right, isn't it?
JND	Partly. They are more than happy to pay the Poor Rate, as they did last year and every year past but not the new Education Rate. And of course they have to pay it all –that's the Law.
JE	So what happened in Marmaduke Best's session then? I wish I had been there!
JR	There were only – only- about 10 of them, not 35 - and it didn't begin too badly. That's not true –the first defendant queried that a magistrate who is also on the Board of Guardians and responsible for Poor Relief, like you Elliott, shouldn't adjudicate.
JND	Oh Lord! Will that happen again?
JR	Each one got up in the dock and stated why they wouldn't pay "I am not guilty, I would be guilty if I did pay". And then Froome's rant had him a round of applause and Supt Robotham shouted "Silence in Court" and threatened to throw out any man that made a noise!JEMy word! I need scarcely remind you that this Court is not a place for applause, or demonstration of any sort, and we feel sure that you will respect the wishes of the magistrates that these proceedings should be of a perfectly orderly nature. (PR crowd look at each other and nod) I need only to say for myself, as well as for my colleagues, that it is exceedingly painful to have to adjudicate in a matter of this sort, in which so many respectable inhabitants of the town are concerned. At the same time it is our duty to adjudicate; we are not responsible for the law, but we have to see it is carried out. Perhaps you will allow me to say – although I have no authority to speak for the whole of those summoned, because many of them are not connected with any organisation – that if the taking of the cases en bloc means that the overseer will be sworn once for all there will be no objection raised. I may also say that the bulk will be content if their objections were briefly stated by two or three, and although I cannot speak for everybody I am sure the desires of the Bench will be respected. We have no desire to do anything in derogation of your position and authority.

JND	We only suggest this course: anyone who wishes can be heard separately.
EHT	I would like to congratulate you gentlemen
	on the orderly nature of these proceedings.
	The mayor has rightly said it was painful for him to adjudicate and I do not intend to trespass upon your good feelings by making a lengthy speech

JND	Smiles and tries to speak
EHT	It is only necessary to state for myself and a good many others associated with me that in refusing to pay this rate we are by no means objecting to paying for education. I would be glad to pay for more than that for which I have been summonsed, for an efficient and just system of education. I object to paying this rate because it is associated with a system which I believe to not only be perfectly unjust, but also to be an invasion of my deepest religious convictions. This money is devoted in some schools to the teaching of a Catechism, which embodies doctrines which I regard – I would not like to disparage other people's convictions (looking toward SOR and Bench) or to use the language of the Prayer book, which describes certain evil doctrines as "blasphemous deceits" or something like that but the doctrines taught by the Church Catechism I regard as perfectly untrue, and my whole life and ministry are based upon convictions which are opposed to all this. I cannot therefore without violation of my very soul pay this without compulsion.
	(Maybe Day tries to speak here again) It is a matter of great injustice that in any school to which public money has been contributed Nonconformist teachers should be shut out by Religious tests. Religious tests which have wrought evil to religion, to the soul, and to the conscience.

JR	I am almost certain that the Act makes no such suggestion? (TT raises his hand and is noticed)
EHT	I am only speaking for myself, and not necessarily for others, but I believe that there is a constitutional aspect of this matter, against which good citizens should be protected. Denominational Schools will not be appointing a Nonconformist teacher, however excellent their teaching skills may be, to the headship or even the staff of any National school that I know of. The Education Act of 1902 is so much against the spirit of the constitution of the country that the liberty of the citizen will be ultimately at stake. I have no more to say, except to thank you for your courtesy and consideration. (Bench look relieved)
	TT raises his hand again to speak
JND Thomas	Mr Turner you have something to say?
Turner	Thank you, sir. As a citizen I protest that the Education Rate is the old Church rate resurrected in another form and as such re-imposes a system of sectarian tests for state-paid offices. On conscientious grounds I refuse to pay – painful as such a refusal is.
RD	Rose rises to speak
JND	Miss Dolton?	Seward
		helps her to the lectern

RD	The statements already submitted make the position of myself and my sister very clear. We feel very strongly that this introduction of religious tests is shutting the door of a very honourable position, in the face of some of our fellow Christians, which we would not willingly see happen. As a woman I object very strongly, recollecting the large share of the work of the Board Schools that has been done by women, and the honourable and splendid manner in which they have done it. (murmurs of agreement) We therefore protest against any infringement of the rights of our sisters in this matter. (Looks a sister Edith for confirmation)
JND	Mr Bell, you wish to address us?
Robert Bell	I have a few words prepared "We're pleased to pay to help the poor But now we're asked for a wee bit more The Church schools now will have our rate And teach beliefs that we all hate Heaven is not for those who learn a script They will surely stay inside the crypt (Cheers) The way we live shows our belief We want only to pay the Poor Relief."
JND	Thank you! Reverend Neville?
John Neville	I cannot pay this rate because I am a Protestant, and therefore wish to be loyal to the constitution of the country. The JND James Siney	Education Act makes it possible for the rankest Catholicism to be taught in the day schools of this country and at the expense of the ratepayers! I must protest and I refuse to pay the rate. When the Nonconformist case was fairly put before the Prime Minister Mr Balfour by Dr Fairbairn, Mr Balfour said we were acting from a feeling of sectarian prejudice and bigotry, but as a Bishop of the Church of England has described the Act in the House of Lords a "game of grab" I have been led to the firm decision not to pay. Mr Siney? You have our respect gentlemen, but if the Prime Minister, Mr Balfour were here in your place we would be able to tell him what we think of his policy. It is not long since Nonconformists prayed that the life of our King may be spared, but today we are being persecuted. I do not think, gentlemen and superintendent, there will be any trouble when you come to seize our goods.

JND	Thank you for your reassurance. Mr Smith?
Arthur Smith	There are a number of reasons for not paying the educational part of the rate. The citizen's right of direct popular control is being denied us by this Act of Parliament. I am summonsed to pay for teaching which as a Free Churchman I cannot accept and indeed would not allow my own children to receive.
JND	Mr Seward, you have something to add?

	We hear with interest your experiences of appointing a headmaster and realising that although Free Churchmen were not eligible the salary for the appointment would now come out of the public rate.
	As you tell us this Act is but an initial step in the game, and unless we resist it will not be long before this country will lose its freedom, and our necks will be placed under the foot of a priest. We will not allow this Act to extinguish Nonconformity.
	Cheers.
EHT	Indeed. Our resistance will afford the opportunity of educating our young people in the principles of Nonconformity and will be the means of strengthening our churches. It is quite possible that incidentally the result would be to do something to deliver the country from a great danger in another direction. Mr Chamberlain has said that the passive resistance of Nonconformity might beat him, and if so we will be rendering a service to the Empire, little dreamt of when this movement began. The Tories are losing their support as they propose to move away from Free Trade. Conservative MPs are changing to fight the next election as Liberals, that Churchill chap is one of them. We now have at last a local Liberal candidate, Mr Mackarness, who is not a Free Churchman but who is profoundly in sympathy with our position about the Education system. He will receive the support of all Free Churchmen. Who knows what the future may hold.

	Cheers and Applause, exeunt stage left and wait
EC	The Unionists continued to support the Resisters' cause so that the 1906 general election was a landslide victory for the Liberals. In this area Mr Mackarness took the seat from Sir William Mount. The Liberals remained in power until after the Great War. However all their attempts to repeal the 1902 Education Act were blocked by the Bishops in the House of Lords. The Local Education Authorities created in 1902 are still with us today.
